Art Acquisition Program History

In 2006, the Town of Truro established an Art Acquisition Program to create and maintain a collection of visual art which reflects the locale and culture of Truro and surrounding area.

Each year proceeding, an annual Art Acquisition Show has been held where a Selection Committee views and purchases one piece of artwork.

This selection is then placed on public display in the Town of Truro Civic Building at 695 Prince St.

Previously Selected Artwork

2007: "Victoria Park" by Deanna A. Boucher
2008: "Can't You Hear the Whistle Blow" by Lorinda Antonello Regan
2009: "Spring Garden" by Holly Lennox
2010: "Willena Beatrice Jones" by Janice Guinan
2011: "View Toward Onslow" by Richard Wenzel
2012: "The First Obstacle" by Jo-Ann Shaw
2013: "Winter Light" by Pamela Swainson
2014: "Old Truro Train Station (circa 1928)" by Diane Redden
2015: "Call to Duty" by Janice Stewart
2016: "Dusk on Esplanade" by Ron Hazell
2017: "Moon over Marsh" by Christene Sandeson and "A Canada Story" by Alison Fielding
2018: "First United Church" by Jen Power
2019: "Come Together" by Rob MacCormack & Pamela Sutherland

Selection Criteria

The Selection Committee takes each of the following into consideration when selecting a piece of art each year:

Quality Art: Originality, good composition, technical competence, presentation (in terms of preservation) and the relevance of the style and development of the artist.

Inspired by the locale and culture of the Town of Truro and surrounding area: This is secondary, but will be considered.

Medium: The goal is to balance the art collection to include a variety of media. Therefore, Selection Committee members are asked to be acquainted with, and to consider previously selected artwork, when choosing a new addition to the collection.

Selection Committee

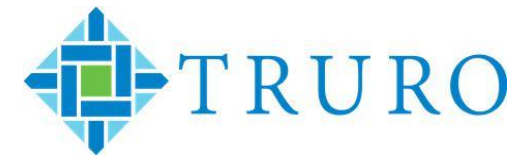

The Selection Committee is composed of:

A representative of a public community art organization or interested citizen.

Two members of Truro Town Council.

A Parks, Recreation and Culture Department representative.

A professional or recognized artist.

Art Acquisition Show

The Annual Town of Truro Art Acquisition Show is co-hosted by the Town of Truro and the Truro Art Society. The show is open to the public and runs from April 7 - 27, 2020 at the McCarthy Hall Gallery, at the Nova Scotia Community College Campus.

Selection Process

Art Show: The one-month Art Show provides artists with the opportunity to display a maximum of three works of art for the Selection Committee and the general public.

Selection: After acquainting themselves with the submissions, the Selection Committee members then view all of the art work and convene to make a decision.

Announcement: A formal announcement of the selection is made at an opening reception hosted by the Town of Truro at the McCarthy Hall Gallery on Thursday, April 9 from 4:30-6:00pm for the artists, Selection Committee members, Truro Town Council, the public and the media.
